The Great Affect has been recognized on a national level, selected as a featured presentation for EMS World Expo 2025 and chosen as a keynote session for the NAEMSE Conference 2025. These selections highlight the importance and relevance of this topic in shaping the future of EMS education. As EMS educators, our job is more than just delivering information, it's about creating an environment where learning sticks. We've all sat through dry, forgettable lectures, and we've also had those moments where a class, a speaker, or an experience changed how we thought about something forever. The difference? The power of affect. This presentation will explore why the affective domain is just as crucial as cognitive and psychomotor skills in EMS education. Attendees will gain practical tools to foster connection, improve retention, and create more impactful training experiences.
